Only mortgages and liens on the property being sold may be deducted from the sales price. Mortgages, liens or advances on credit lines in contemplation of the sale cannot be deducted unless, the buyer can presume that any mortgage, lien or credit lines made more than one year before the closing are not in contemplation of the sale and may be deducted. If the mortgage, lien or credit line advance is made less than one year prior to the closing, the buyer cannot deduct the mortgage, lien or credit line advance unless the buyer obtains an affidavit from the seller, which states that the loan or advance was not made in contemplation of the sale and meets the requirements and includes all of the information contained in this affidavit.
